Ways Your Church Will Benefit from Adults on MissionSM

10 Provides a way for men, women, and couples to serve together to meet the needs of the unchurched.

9 Encourages project-based, active-learning opportunities for those typically turned off by a meeting format.

8 Has a flexible team format that can be shaped around the interests of those involved and not around a formal organizational structure.

7 Creates a purpose-driven environment that helps Christians fulfill the outward focus of the Great Commission.

6 Teaches adults the biblical reasons for reaching out to non-Christians down the street and around the world.

5 Makes personal connections from your church to individual missionaries your church supports through your state missions offering, the Cooperative Program, the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering[®] for International Missions, and the Annie Armstrong Easter Offering[®] for North American Missions.

4 Helps the local church understand her role in the larger missions enterprise of national organizations, missions-sending agencies, and God's global mission.

2 Introduces the concept of being the church outside the church walls to people who previously may not have understood the church's purpose that way.

3 Instills an evangelistic spirit through hands-on ministry to those without Christ.

1 Increases giving to missions and praying for missions as a result of hands-on missions involvement, helping individual Christians to link their minds with their hearts through the work of their hands.
