

Reflect and Respond

Statements from prisoners living in a faith dorm.

—from Missions Leader, Fall 2016, page 12

“This isn’t my first rodeo with God. I went to Catholic schools and a Baptist church, but I never heard about a relationship with God until I came into the dorm. This relationship will be my foundation now and in the future.”

Reflection Question:

How do you demonstrate that your relationship with God is the foundation for your life?

“I feel like a leaking dam. God is touching me in many ways I never expected and I know the dam will break. I just don’t know when.”

Reflection Question:

How is God working in your life?

“Following God means not going home to my family, where I know I will fail.”

Reflection Question:

Have you had to make tough decisions because you are a follower of Christ?

“For the past several weeks, I was angry with God because He didn’t answer my prayers the way I wanted. Now I am learning to trust Him and He is teaching me to be obedient.”

Reflection Question:

What is the Father saying as you commune with Him?

One inmate said of her friend, who now lives in the faith dorm: “I see God in you. You are different than when we met. You restore my faith.”

Reflection Question:

Can others see that you are following His example?

“God is cleaning through the layers of junk in me to teach and change me.”

Reflection Question:

Are you aware of who you are becoming in Christ?

“I’ve never thought about if my life was bringing honor to Christ. I want to be more accountable in how I live.”

Reflection Question:

Do you intentionally think about your life glorifying God?
